SDG 12:

Responsible Consumption and Production

Our commitment to SDG 12 (Responsible Consumption and Production) is demonstrated by embedding sustainable consumption and production principles across our institution. We stand up for the practical application of resource efficiency, moving beyond research to transform our campus operations through advanced waste recycling and sustainable procurement. This report details our systematic efforts in waste management and fostering sustainable supply chains, initiatives that solidify our leadership in sustainability and enhance our performance in global rankings.

12.2.6. Policy for Minimization of Disposable Items

"By promoting a cultural shift towards reusables and durable alternatives, the policy is a cornerstone of our commitment to resource efficiency and the principles of a circular economy."

The university has a formal and publicly accessible policy for the minimization of disposable items. This policy directly targets the reduction of solid waste and the overall material footprint by systematically phasing out single-use products across campus operations, including in dining services, administrative offices, and university events. By promoting a cultural shift towards reusables and durable alternatives, the policy is a cornerstone of our commitment to resource efficiency and the principles of a circular economy.

An example of applying this policy is found in the regulations of food outlets in the university, where rule number (7) asks the outlets to use paper bags instead of plastic bags.
